Topic (please be specific): I wish to make a 4 minute comment regarding planned growth for the city of Columbia. Growth is inevitable, but how we grow does not seem to follow a coherent plan. When development discussions occur, I seldom if ever hear reference to a long term strategy in the press, public opinion or council votes.

It occurs to me that these reasons are structural, and I would like to ask the council to consider taking responsibility for specific development decisions in a new way.

Humbly,

Sean P. Goggins
