

Columbia's 64th Annual Fourth of July

Artists performing at Peace Park & Flat Branch

Park starting at 6:30pm

Fireworks begin at 9:15pm

Peace Park Stage

Brad Cunningham Band 6:30pm

The Brad Cunningham Band is on a mission to share the gospel of Texas Country Music with the Northland. They may call Missouri home, but their sound comes from a little further south where story telling, soul & screaming guitars sit down for a nice steak dinner with an electric fiddle, a bouncing bass line and a steady train beat.

Bummer the Drummer & The Kansas City Street Band 7:45pm

A seven to ten piece moving and grooving Rock N' Soul, Rhythm N' Blues, and Jazz horn band with a hard edge. They're funky as nine cans of Magic Shave with the best ballads this side of the Mississippi River.

Flat Branch Park Stage

The Ironweed Bluegrass Band 6:30pm

With meandering roots from the Ozarks all the way to Tubingen Germany, Ironweed brings you the finest in bluegrass, vintage country and good ol' hillbilly twang. You can expect a bucketful of tunes about trains, moonshine, dirt, heartaches, pigs, corn and girls named Sophronie.

The Kay Brothers 7:45pm

The Kay Brothers are a stomppgrass band of the Ozark persuasion. Brothers Pat & Bryan Kay grew up in California, MO and are often joined by 'the gals', Molly Healey and Lauren Douglas. Altogether the outfit boasts a 4-part vocals, upright bass, guitar, and banjo.
