We all care deeply about our community and the people who choose to live, work, learn and play in Columbia. Continued conversations keep our police officers and residents focused on a partnership for good. We can work together to build a solid foundation for all of us now and for our collective future. Please join us for an evening of engagement regarding the following topics:

- 1 How Police and community representatives can have a positive online presence.
- 2 How to navigate the difference and the overlap between having a personal brand vs. public role/responsibility.
- 3 The importance of balancing an online presence in a way that reflects cultural competence.
- 4 Ways to bring about a continued commitment to manifesting police and community relationships that are stronger and more secure for all.
