December Volunteer of the Month The Downtown Optimist Club

Rick McKernan shows a family the computer they received through the "Homes for Computers" program.

The Downtown Optimist Club was selected as Volunteer of the Month because of their work over the last three years with the "Homes for Computers" program. The program is a joint effort between the City of Columbia, the Voluntary Action Center and the Downtown Optimists. Club members clean and test surplus City computers, assist families in the use of the computers and provide their facility to store and distribute them. Each year, more than 30 families who meet eligibility requirements receive a computer.

Rick McKernan, past president says, "The Optimist Club is a microcosm of the community as a whole. The people in Columbia care and play an active role with the kids in our community. Some do it in a hands-on way and others help by supporting our tree and nut sales at holiday time."

The Downtown Optimist Club has raised funds for Columbia youth since 1936. Proceeds from Christmas tree and nuts sales are used for activities, programs and scholarships. ## Flu vaccinations available

Have you gotten your flu vaccination yet? The Columbia/Boone County Department of Public Health and Human Services is offering flu vaccinations on a walk-in basis at the health department clinic, 1005 W. Worley.

While vaccination is the best way to prevent contracting the flu, remember to avoid close contact with people who are sick, stay home from school or work when you're sick, cover your mouth and nose when you cough or sneeze and wash your hands frequently with soap and water or an alcohol-based sanitizer.

For more information on the flu vaccine, visit the city's Web site at www.GoColumbiaMo.com.

Help provide holiday toys for Columbia's youth

Columbia Parks and Recreation is teaming up with the Neighborhood Resource Center for the annual Toys for Columbia's Youth toy drive.

While shopping this holiday season, please pick up an extra toy for a low-income boy or girl. Toys can be dropped off at the Armory Sports Center (701 E. Ash) or the downtown Parks and Recreation office (#1 South Seventh Street).

Monetary donations are also being accepted at the Parks and Recreation office, in the form of cash, check or Visa or MasterCard. Donors will receive a letter of acknowledgement for tax deduction purposes. The monetary donations will be used to buy additional toys.

In 2007, more than 230 children were served by the program; each received at least three toys. This year, donations will be accepted until Dec. 19.

For more information about being a donor or a recipient, please call Parks and Recreation at 874-7460.

Help your neighbors in need Donate to utility assistance

CASH and HELP

Everyone feels the pinch of increased prices but people with low or fixed incomes are hit harder. Can you imagine choosing between buying food and paying your utility bill? You can help by filling out the contribution slip on this month's utility bill return envelope for the CASH and HELP programs. These programs were established to help seniors, the disabled and families with children pay their utility bills.

Both programs have had additional requests over the last year and some requests for assistance have not been met. By giving a little extra, you can help someone in our community.

More than $40,000 raised at Columbia Police Foundation auction

The Columbia Police Foundation held its first auction to raise money for a firearms training simulator. Through the help of volunteers, the organization raised more than $40,000 to purchase the equipment. The simulator will be housed at the new Columbia Police Department training center to help officers improve their firearms skills.

The Police Department would like to thank the local businesses and citizens who donated items for the auction and the following people who donated time and efforts to make the auction a success: Chris Egbert, Mike Lynch, Rusty Antel, Jackie Schupe, Tom Clements, Nancy Witt, Bryan Liebhart, Jeanette Symmonds, Gary Tatlow, Kara Buckner and John Worden.

- Consolidate shopping trips to save fuel.

Lang Jr. Award for outstanding volunteer service. Included with the award is a $1,000 cash prize. The recipient will be chosen based on impact, initiative and length of service. Nominations will be accepted through Jan. 9, 2009.

Nominations sought for Columbia Values Diversity Awards

Help celebrate diversity in our community by nominating an individual, family, organization or group for the 12th annual Columbia Values Diversity Awards. Show your appreciation for those who have had a significant impact promoting diversity and cultural understanding.

These awards will be presented at the 16th annual Columbia Values Diversity Celebration on Thursday, Jan. 15, recognizing people whose work exemplifies the life and teachings of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. by fostering individual dignity, racial equality, understanding, peacemaking and solving problems through non-violence.

One individual/family award and one organization/group award will be presented.

The deadline for nominations is Friday, Nov. 28. Nomination forms are available by calling the Office of Community Services at (573) 874-7488 (v) or 874-7356 (tty) or on the Web at www.GoColumbiaMo.com (Go Word: GoDiversityCelebration).

If you like the outdoors and want to do something hands-on to help city parks, you might be interested in the TreeKeepers volunteer program.

TreeKeepers attend a class where they learn about trees, including identification, planting, pruning, insects, diseases and soils. The 2009 class will be held: Thursday, Jan. 22, from 6-9 p.m.; Saturday, Jan. 24, from 8 a.m. to noon; and Tuesday, Jan. 27, from 6-8 p.m. Following the coursework, participants are asked to share 36 hours of service on City tree projects held Saturday mornings.

Holiday Food Safety

In the United States, 325,000 people are hospitalized with food borne illness each year. Those most vulnerable are children, seniors and those who have an illness that affects their immune system. The Columbia/Boone County Department of Public Health and Human Services reminds citizens of the following basic food safety rules for a healthy holiday season:

Clean	Wash hands and food-contact surfaces often. Bacteria can spread throughout the kitchen and get onto cutting boards, knives, sponges and countertops.
Separate	Don't cross-contaminate - keep raw meats, poultry and seafood away from other foods that are ready-to-eat.
Cook	Cook to proper temperatures.
Chill	Cool leftovers quickly. Cold temperatures keep most harmful bacteria from growing and multiplying.

Columbia recognized by 'America In Bloom'

Columbia received a four-bloom rating, on a scale of five, at the 2008 America In Bloom Symposium held in Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 2-4. America In Bloom is a national program that evaluates participant communities in eight areas including environmental efforts, community involvement, landscaped areas and urban forestry.

Columbia received special recognition in the community involvement area for the many ways volunteers can participate in city activities, as well as the staff who are dedicated to working with them. Each year, volunteers give the city about 40,000 hours of service.

In June, Columbia was visited by two America In Bloom judges who reviewed the community and met with more than 100 community members. Columbia's high rating in the program is an endorsement of the efforts made by the community to improve appearance, environment and overall quality of life.

To learn more about Columbia's participation in the America In Bloom program, visit the Volunteer Services page on the city's Web site at www.GoColumbiaMo.com.

Drive-By Art

Beginning in 2009, the Office of Cultural Affairs (OCA) will implement new public art programming to address traffic signal boxes in the downtown area. Building on the success of a pilot project at Ninth Street and Broadway painted by local artist David Spear in September 2007, one or two additional boxes will be addressed in the downtown area in 2009.

The projects will include an artist's honorarium and a budget for materials. Local artists interested in getting involved should provide the OCA with complete contact information (name, mailing address and zip code, and email address); reach the OCA at oca@GoColumbiaMo.com or (573) 874-6386.

Before it was painted by local artist David Spear in 2007, the traffic box at Ninth Street and Broadway was regularly vandalized with graffiti. Photos reprinted by permission from David Spear.
