A Note from the Director

The 2016 Annual Report provides a snapshot of the work completed by the staff of the Columbia/Boone County Department of Public Health and Human Services over the past year. As always, I am proud to sing the praises of our talented and dedicated staff with their strong public service spirit and their commitment to public health and human services.

In 2016 we achieved national accreditation through the Public Health Accreditation Board (PHAB). The national accreditation program sets standards against which the nation's nearly 3,000 governmental public health departments can continuously improve the quality of their services and performance. To receive accreditation, we underwent a rigorous, peer-reviewed assessment process against nearly 100 quality standards and measures. We are currently one of only four local health agencies in the state of Missouri to achieve national accreditation, and we join fewer than 200 of approximately 3,000 health departments across the county to be accredited thus far since PHAB launched in 2011. With accreditation, we are demonstrating as a collective team, increased accountability and credibility to the public, funders, elected officials and partner organizations that we work with. Accreditation does not represent a one-time goal; rather a process of continual improvement. It helps us make sure we are serving our community in the best way possible over the long haul.

As we wrap up 2016 and start a new year, we will continue to monitor infectious diseases and emerging public health threats on the horizon like the mumps and the Zika virus. Our goal is to make sure we have a strong, responsive public health system in place so that we are able to protect our community when the need arises. We will also continue our involvement with the Live Well Boone County Community Health Improvement Plan by supporting the work of five action teams: Safe and Healthy Neighborhoods, Access to Health Care, Behavioral Health, Healthy Lifestyles, and Health Disparities. There is much to be accomplished, but we know that working together as a community is the way toward true progress.
